Winter Park in 2012
Wednesday, March 21 – Monday, March 26, 2012

Are you looking for a great wrap up to the 2011 - 2012 ski season? Look no further than Winter Park, Colorado for some of the best spring skiing conditions. Make plans now to join your Fall Line friends when we return to this club favorite in March 2012.

Winter Park... is a Symphony of Skiing...

Offering 143 designated trails on more than 3,060 total skiable acres, Winter Park has a track record for consistently receiving greater than 29' @year of the stuff that we love - SNOW! Just ask any Fall Liner who skied here previously about the place and there is a good chance that in addition to mentioning the skiing variety, they will tell you about Winter Park's excellent spring powder conditions. Regardless of your skiing ability, Winter Park will exceed your expectations with much to offer all.

This resort delivers to you a magnificent symphony of chutes, bowls, glades and even cruisers. And, at this time of year, if you are looking to shop, it also delivers some great prices on equipment and clothing.

Comprised of five very distinct mountains, Winter Park is almost equally divided between "beginner-intermediate-advanced" runs and the expert challenges. Whether skiing the Vasquez Cirque, Vasquez Ridge, Parsenn Bowl, Winter Park or famed Mary Jane trails, this location will quickly go on to your list of top US ski resorts.

Off the Mountain Conveniences...

When not on the mountain we will be staying at the Best Western Alpenglo Lodge & Conference Center located in the town of Winter Park and on the shuttle route.
